

Mustang Survival and BOATsmart! Canada Form Boating Safety Partnership

May 8, 2006 – Richmond, BC – Mustang Survival has just announced a new boating partnership with BOATsmart! Canada. The two organizations share common goals in encouraging people to have fun on the water as well as helping them choose the most suitable and effective Personal Flotation Device (PFD) for their water sports activities.

Included in the partnership will be the development of useful boating tips to be played out on both the Web and through a program of television commercials that BOATsmart! Canada is planning. These tips will answer questions like; what should I look for when buying a PFD for my child, what is the most suitable and comfortable PFD for my water sports activities, are inflatable PFD's a good choice for me, what features are important, and so on.

Mustang Survival will be providing the BOATsmart! Canada organization with products, marketing support and sponsorship.

"BOATsmart! Canada is proud to be partnering with Mustang Survival", remarks Cameron Taylor, President of BOATsmart! Canada. "Mustang's commitment to the Canadian boating community is tremendous. We're excited to build this relationship with a true industry leader in order to promote boating safety in Canada."

According to Frank Leffelaar, Manager, Marketing Services for Mustang Survival, "Our goal is to give people a choice of comfortable high quality PFDs, the BOATsmart! organization is a great partner to reach active boaters and inform them about the wide variety of safety products available to support them in their favorite water sports activities."

BOATsmart! Safe Boating Teams will be traveling to consumer shows and community events across Canada in the coming year showcasing Mustang Survival products. The products will also be featured exclusively in BOATsmart! Canada boater education programs. A schedule of BOATsmart! Team events can be found at www.boatsmartexam.com.
