

Mustang Survival Auto Hydrostatic PFD Wins MAATS 2006 Innovation Award For Safety

July 21, 2006 – Las Vegas, NV – The Mustang Survival Auto Hydrostatic Inflatable Personal Flotation Device (PFD) was recognized with the Innovation Award for Safety at the Marine Aftermarket Accessories Tradeshow (MAATS) in Las Vegas. Judged by a committee from Boating Writers International, this prestigious Industry award recognizes products for innovation and distinctiveness, benefit to consumers and practicality.

"We are extremely honored to receive the Innovation Award For Safety for the Auto Hydrostatic PFD," said Frank Leffelaar, Manager Marketing Services for Mustang Survival. "Our strong commitment to research and development allows us to create innovative products that customers will not only want to wear but will also keep them safe while they are on the water."

Featuring new HIT™ Hydrostatic Inflation Technology, the PFD inflates under water pressure and is not susceptible to rain, humidity or spray. Featuring heavy duty 420 Denier Nylon and a durable and easy-to-use SecureZip™ PFD closure system, the new Auto Hydrostatic Inflatable PFD (MD3183) was designed to be comfortable to be worn all day in any type of weather. A sailing version with integrated sailing harness that exceeds ORC standards is also available (MD3184).

In addition to the type II approval for recreational use, this PFD is also USCG approved for use on uninspected commercial vessels.
